Dear Attendees and Guests,

We are pleased to welcome you to IMPS 2023, the 88th Annual Meeting of the Psychometric Society, held at the University of Maryland in College Park. This marks the first time the meeting has been held in the United States since 2018 and we on the local organizing committee hope that it will be a very pleasant and enriching experience for all of you.

The University of Maryland (UMD) is the state's flagship university and a leading public research institution, propelled by a $1.3 billion joint research enterprise. Located four miles from Washington, D.C., the university is dedicated to addressing the grand challenges of our time and is the nation's first Do Good Campus. It is driven by a diverse and proudly inclusive community of more than 50,000 fearless Terrapins. UMD is a top producer of Fulbright scholars and offers an unparalleled student experience with more than 300 academic programs, 25 living-learning programs, and 400 study abroad programs. Spurred by a culture of innovation and creativity, UMD faculty are global leaders in their field and include Nobel laureates, Pulitzer Prize winners, and members of the national academies.

UMD's Department of Human Development and Quantitative Methodology (HDQM), located in the College of Education, is one of the world's leading centers for research on child and adolescent development, educational psychology, and cutting-edge psychometric and statistical methods. In addition to hosting IMPS 2023, The Quantitative Methodology: Measurement and Statistics (QMMS) program is widely recognized as being among the best programs in the country with exceptional students trained by faculty who are leaders within their research areas. The M.S. program gives individuals the broad range of skills necessary to serve as research associates in academic, government, education and business settings; while the Ph.D. program qualifies individuals to provide leadership in the conduct of research studies, to serve as applied statisticians, measurement, or evaluation specialists in school systems, industry, and government, and to teach quantitative courses at the collegiate level. The program also strongly supports students with an interest in an academic career as methodologist, statistician, or psychometrician.

The meeting starts with three parallel short courses on Monday, July 24. A graduate student mixer at The Hotel at the University of Maryland will be held Monday evening from 6:30 pm-8:30 pm. The main meeting then runs from Tuesday, July 25, to Friday, July 28. The meeting's opening and welcome will be on Tuesday at 9:00 am in the Colony Ballroom of the Adele H. Stamp Student Union. At 5:30 pm, the Welcome Reception will take place at The Hotel at the University of Maryland. The business portion of the meeting will conclude on Friday with the awards ceremony that is scheduled to end at 12:45 pm and directly follows the meeting of the members which begins at 11:30 am. We are especially excited to conclude the week with an excursion to the Spy Museum in Washington D.C., which will include food and drinks.

We are pleased to have a complete program featuring eminent keynote and invited speakers with topics spanning many areas of psychometrics. The College Park area has much to offer, within both the beautiful University of Maryland campus and the surrounding area which includes Washington, D.C. We have left time between the meeting and the Spy Museum excursion for those who wish to enjoy the many attractions that are available. We are thrilled that we can continue in-person meetings after a highly successful IMPS 2022, and we are confident IMPS 2023 will foster stimulating conversations and provide attendees and guests with a wonderful experience. Best wishes on a very satisfying meeting and thank you for joining us.
